The place to be in Tel Aviv on an early Friday afternoon - The Carmel Market aka "THE SHUK"- Ha'Carmel Street & Nachalat Binyamin meet the corner of Allenby & King George & Shenkein. Walk (or roll with the tide ) down the main strip and you must go off on the little side streets, which lead you to other side streets and join the locals at the eateries (fine dining it ain't) which are basically a hole in the wall or a little bistro-bar type restaurant ... every inch of the road is covered with people standing, sitting, lying and eating and drinking .. if you're over 30 something then you'll be "the older generation" .. Marvellous smells, tastes and a real happening ... You can shop for groceries, gourmet cheeses, olive oil, organic, baked goods, souvenirs, clothes and shoes for adults and children, toys and anything else you can think of!! But be sure to take at least half a day - and then when you're thru meander to Nachalt Shiva's open street crafts & art fair (Tuesdays and Fridays only) ... terrific display of local handicrafts by talented Israeli artists ... of course there is the street entertainment right on the corner of Allenby & Nachalat Benyamin and Carmel Street ... this corner is dominated by Miri Aloni (a veteran singing star, jugglers and singers and the drummer who has garnered fans via youtube,

US business magazine Forbes announced the first-ever "Forbes Under 30 Summit Global" in Israel which will be from May 6-9, 2018 week. Representatives from more than 35 countries will bring close to a thousand under 30-year-old top entrepreneurs. (On their site they advise that there is another summit in September in Boston, MA where they are expecting thousands to attend!)
